MADE IT – Yukoner Martyn Williams, right, completed the international North Pole Expedition is six weeks along with Mike McDowell and brothers Sju and Simen Modre, at left.

CITY RESIDENT MAKES POLAR HISTORY

Whitehorse resident Martyn Williams has become the first Canadian to reach both poles of the earth using only skis and a small dog team.

Williams, 44 and his three companions on the International north Pole Expedition were picked up Saturday after six grueling weeks of fighting severe temperatures, driving winds, and tough, unpredictable sea ice.

All four members of the group are South Pole veterans. Australian Mike McDowell 44, accompanied Williams to the South Pole in 1990. Norwegian brothers Sjur, 27, and Simen Modre, 29, traveled to the South Pole in 1991.

The group is now resting at the advance base on Ellesmere Island before they return tonight to Resolute Bay, N.W.T.

Tough terrain slowed progress for the first few weeks. However, the expedition traveled more than 25 kilometres a day in the last couple of weeks to make up for last time.

They had to reach the pole by May 12. After that date, warming temperatures cause fog and broken ice, which makes air pick-up impossible.

The trip has been much tougher than expected, Pangman said. Temperatures have averaged about -35° and driving winds have caused frostbite. A team of eight dogs has been more of a hindrance than a help. Pangman said.

Mammoth Bones 12,000 years old

It's the bare bones of a beginning, but placer miner Norm Ross hopes the recovery of a mammoth from a claim on Gold Run Creek deposits a good image of the industry in tourism promotions.

The bones of the sub-adult mammoth were unearthed in early August by Miles Johnson, who was stripping the pit in preparation for mining. The claim, in the Klondike gold fields, is owned by Lyle Gatenby and is being worked by Ross Mining Services.

"It's our desire, if we took the time to stake it out and left the area intact to preserve the animal, we'd like to see them take it a step further and do something with it," says Ross.

Spare Ribs - These ribs belonged to a sub-adult mammoth.

KENO CHURNS TOWARD DAWSON

The paddlewheeler Keno was scheduled to begin churning towards Dawson City on its final voyage at 2 p.m. today. Captain Frank S. Blakely, 72, of British Columbia, was at the ship's controls and Frank Slim of Whitehorse went aboard as pilot. H.J. Breaden of Whitehorse was signed on as first mate.

After rotting six years at Whitehorse dry dock, the 613 ton sternwheeler once more headed down the Yukon River. The huge orange paddle wheel lashed the water as the Keno began its 425-mile trip toward Dawson. A crew of 12 were on board for the historic voyage, as were eight representatives of the press, radio, and television.

The trip is expected to take about three days, although the length of the voyage will depend on whether the riverboat becomes bogged on any sandbars on the way.

At Dawson City, the Keno will be beached on a river lot and preserved as a relic of the great paddlewheeler era in the Yukon.

The Keno was built in 1922 and rebuilt in 1937. She measures 160 feet long and 30 feet at the beam. To enable the ship to pass beneath the Carmacks bridge, the old wheelhouse had to be temporarily removed.

The tall smoke stack was fastened on hinges, and will also be taken down at the bridge.

Skipper Blakely said it was his first trip down the Yukon River, although he has traveled the Mackenzie, Tagish and Columbia Rivers. On the lower Columbia, Mr. Blakely owns his own sternwheeler which he uses for pleasure cruises. The ship is called the Radium and measures 70 feet.

However, he has not been the Captain of a craft as large as the Keno since 1914, when he was skipper of the Armstrong on the Upper Columbia River.

KENO LOG

August 25 – The Keno left Whitehorse at 2:25 p.m., with two thousand people waving bon voyage from the shore of the Yukon River. The first meal aboard ship, consisting of tins of spaghetti and canned potatoes, was served at 7 p.m. At 10 p.m. the boat pulled into shore at Lower Laberge for overnight mooring, 59 miles from Whitehorse, aside the skeleton hull of the first Casca.

August 26 – The paddlewheeler swept past Little Salmon at 3:30 p.m. and moored for the night just above Carmacks at 6 p.m.

August 27 – After dismantling the huge smokestack and sawing down the boom, the Keno slipped under the Carmacks bridge at 11:20 a.m. with only a foot and a half to spare. The paddlewheeler shot through the rapids of Five Fingers at 3:45 p.m. then the Rink Rapids at 4:15 p.m.

At 6 p.m. the keel ran aground a gravel bar at Slack Water Crossing on the Minto Flats. It took the crew until 9:29 p.m. to winch the sternwheeler free. The Keno was moored about half a mile down the river for the night.

August 28 – The gangplank was pulled in at 10 a.m. and by noon the Keno reached Fort Selkirk where passengers and crew scrambled through the old buildings searching for relics and picture subjects. The night was spent moored at White River.

August 29 – The Keno passed the mouth of the Stewart River at 8 a.m. At 9:30 a.m., as the paddlewheeler approached Dead Man Island a sour gray fog began to roll over the mountain, coupled with a drizzle of rain. At 1:35 p.m. the Keno was secure on the shore of Dawson City, and the paddlewheeler had ended its final voyage.

SWEEP BY FIRE

Whitehorse was swept by fire early this morning and is now a mass of blackened smoking ruins. Loss $300,000.

The single fire engine at a critical moment gave out, and quickly the best part of the city became involved in ruin.
