A GRIM DEATH INDEED

Of all the accidents that can befall a person on a boat surely an explosion and fire is one of the worst. Three tons of black powder exploded on the Columbian's forward deck that fateful September day and the resulting fireball was carried the length of the ship by a downstream wind. Everyone in the immediate vicinity of the explosion would die, except for passenger Ernest Winstanley. He would be saved by his long underwear.

The Purser, Lionel Cowper had been burned over his entire body. As was the medical custom at the time of the accident, he had been wrapped in an oily blanket and given strychnine pills. In Whitehorse, when it became obvious that he was going to die, massive amounts of "opiates" were administered, but relief lasted only minutes.

DAWSONITES LIBERATED BY U.S. FORCES IN THE PHILIPINES

Provost Marshal-General Leech wired from Washington, D.C. on February 21 to Mr. and Mrs. McDuck McCuish in Dawson, Y. T. informing them that their son John and his wife Virginia, had been released by the U.S. Forces from the Japanese internment camp at Santo Tomas, Luzon Island in the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCuish were on Mindanao Island when the Japanese captured the Philippines and managed to evade capture for about two years by hiding in the hills before they were forced to surrender.

MACKO SENTENCE THREE YEARS

Zoltan Macko was sentenced today to three years in jail for manslaughter in the shooting death of Melmed Dupobac at Arctic Mine on December 10, 1968.

The 31 year old former Hungarian miner had been charged with non capital murder but convicted of the lesser offence by a jury of six at Whitehorse.

During the trial the court learned that Macko, in a drinking session in the mine's bunkhouse, had been attacked by Jordan Kalajdjiev's - an attack which had been intercepted by Dupobac. Macko went to his own room, got his rifle and fired three shots in the corridor outside Kalajdjiev's room.

The last shot killed Dupobac who came out to act as peacemaker.

Asked today if he had anything to say, Macko replied "He grabbed the gun... that's the honest to God truth... I was in good relations with that guy."

In handing down sentence today, Mr. Justice Harry Maddison remarked that while Macko did not intend to kill Dupobac, he intended to shoot someone else and was reckless of anyone's life in firing the shots.

"You have a history of violence from your record and the pre-sentence report," said Judge Maddison. "You are a potential menace to society and must be deterred from further violence."

MOOSE CALF
'ADOPTS' MAN
AS ITS MOTHER

Curt Mintz huddled in the bush with his two dogs for 20 minutes waiting for the cow moose to attack.

"There's no way you can come between a cow and a calf and live," Mintz said in an interview Monday. "I'd rather meet a grizzly."

But there was no attack.

Instead, Mintz became the adopted mother to a three-day-old female moose calf that now lives at the Yukon Game Farm on the Takhini Hot Springs Road.

Mintz came upon the moose on June 2 while strolling through the woods about four kilometres from his cabin on the Alaska Highway near Whitehorse.

"I heard it first, and I thought it was a bear, so I just dived down and grabbed the two dogs and held them.

"I knew whatever it was didn't hear me, 'cause it was making too much noise.

"When I saw it was calf sitting there, I was more worried. I thought, 'I came between a cow and a calf, I'm in really big trouble,' I stayed down there for about 20 minutes.

"I circled around the thing and saw it was a calf moose. So then I snuck up on it and within 10 feet, it heard me. It started crying just like a little baby."

That's when he realized it was alone.

The calf was probably a twin and left behind by its mother, Mintz said. If the mother had been shot, he said, the calf would have stayed with the mother and the hunters would have gotten it.

"It wouldn't have lasted overnight. There's no doubt about it. It's like Grand Central Station out there for coyotes."

He stroked the calf, grabbed it, put it on his shoulders and marched four kilometres back to his cabin with it.

"After about maybe an hour or two, it figured I was its mother. If I walked away from it, it would start crying."

The calf wasn't afraid of people, he said. It liked his dogs, his friend's cat, and gave his guests big moose-lip kisses.

It would cry to eat, lay down, and go outside because it wanted Mintz to be closer to it.

It was three days old, so it couldn't follow him far. It would walk for a while, then stop and cry when Mintz continued.

"I entertained thoughts at one point in time of keeping it," Mintz said. But he decided it would be better for the moose if it went to the game farm. Danny Nowlan, owner of the Yukon Game Farm, is an old friend of Mintz's father.

Nowlan has had a bull moose for about 10 years, said Mintz, and he hasn't be able to find a cow.

So, this could be the beginning of a Yukon moose family bred in captivity.
