$2 BILLION PROJECT TO FLOOD CITY

Details of plans of an Eastern Canadian industrial empire to change the entire map north of the B.C. border:

Included in the plans of the giant Frobisher Ltd., for the $2 billion enterprise - which would dwarf the huge Kitimat and Ungava development - were:

Mammoth dam on Lac Laberge and creation of a lake, 100 to 200 feet deep and covering thousands of square miles.

Moving of the entire town of Whitehorse with its huge Orient route air base.

Relocation of the towns of Carcross and Champagne. (All three centres would be flooded by the artificial lake.)

Changing the route of warborn Alaska highway. Rerouting of the White Pass and Yukon Railway.

Construction of the three big hydro plants in the vicinity of Klunene, Chilkoot Pass and Teslin. Estimated out - 500,000,000 horsepower - makes this the largest integrated power yield in the world.

Creation of a deepsea port on Taku River or north of Haines, Alaska, in Yukon territory.

1969 News From the Whitehorse Star

Court Told:

'Blood Gushed Like Water'
Murder Suspect Committed For Trial

Zoltan Macko was committed for trial Friday, at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing into a charge of non capital murder. The 30 year old miner from Hungary has been charged in connection with the shooting death of Mehmed Dupobac, also 30, at Arctic Gold and Silver Mine near Carcross on December 10 last year.

During the two day hearing the court heard a large number of crown witnesses, miners, tell that an all night drinking party had been going on in room eight of the bunkhouse, occupied by Jordan Kalajdjiev and Frank Kuster. The two roommates were present, as were Dupobac and others. Later the group was joined by the accused Macko, known to his acquaintances as "Zorro".

Witness testified that some time before six a.m. there was an argument and a scuffle between Kalajdjiev, known as "Blackie" and Macko, who eventually left and returned to his own room down the hall.

Shortly afterwards he was seen outside Kalajdjiev's room and two shots were heard.

The court learned that in the corridor Zorro allegedly was calling Blackie to come outside, and accused him of kicking him (Zorro) in the face during the fight.

Kalajdjiev, a dark-haired 26 year old Yugoslav, testified that he tried to keep the door shut but that Mehmed Dupobac known as "Mayo" went out in the hall to act as peacemaker.

Witnesses said that a discussion followed, a third shot was fired, and Dupobac fell to the floor with a shotgun blast in his chest.

Walter Parsons of room six next door told how he overheard both the fight in the room and the shooting. He said that during the party he heard Zorro's voice say "help, help, don't do that." And someone else in room eight say "Don't Jordan, that's enough." There was mostly talk, and then later three shots.

LIKE A GUSH OF WATER

"After the third shot I heard a sound like a gush of water," said Parsons, "and blood came under the door of my room and up the sides of the closet."

Other testimony revealed how the First Aid man, William Evans was summoned but could do nothing for the deceased. Evans said he took a gun away from Zorro.

The preliminary hearing was conducted before Magistrate John Varcoe, with D.S. Collins appearing for the crown and H.H. Regehr for the defence. It was not immediately known when the case would go to trial.

AN ATLIN ROAD AGENT

Masked Highwayman Holds Up a Stage in Real Western Style and Gets $3.55

Atlin has had a genuine stage holdup. The work of the robber was shockingly crude. His method, or rather lack of it, demonstrated that he was not an expert in the profession, and that he was thoroughly in want of experience.

It happened Monday evening, Sept. 16, about 8 o'clock. Walker's stage was enroute to Pine City from Atlin when a masked highwayman stepped out in the road and at the point of a Winchester commanded the driver to halt. The command was obeyed and the passengers were ordered to get out of the stage and line up with their hands in the air. Four of the passengers, Messrs. D. Patterson, C.H. Dewitt, J. Dillon and Mrs. Nelson took to the woods. The others were Driver Walker, Photographer Draper, T. Shirley, W. Waters, J. Emmett and Miss Maud Biggs.

They had considerable money about them, but most of them managed to lose their purses in the stage before leaving it. The highwayman's order to them, therefore, to throw their money in a pile on the road resulted in only $3.55 being contributed to the road agent. This he sulkily picked up, and backing into the brush, he disappeared.

The police were immediately notified and vigorous search made for the daring robber, but up to late reports he has not been caught.

DISASTER- DAWSON CITY FLOOD

AFTER THE FLOOD - Two souvenir shops here, Dawson Arts Crafts and the Klondike Gold Nugget shop, once stood side by side, close to the Yukon River, but now they are barely upright and are facing each other. The tremendous power of the river water gushing over Front Street early Thursday morning has turned them around.

The swollen Yukon River broke free of it's icy mantle and poured into Dawson City. A heavy snowfall and spring ice-jams on three rivers caused the Yukon River to pour into this historic gold rush town despite last-minute efforts by the town's residents to sand bag the river.

The water burst through the makeshift bank at midnight but fortunately most people were awake and alert so there were no lives lost. This was not the first time the gold mining settlement had been ravaged by flooding water. History shows Dawson City was flooded 22 times since 1898. Most of the floods were minor. Others were serious. Floods in 1925, 1944, 1969 and 1966 caused considerable damage.

That fateful night, a blower rounded through the streets of Dawson and drew people down to the river front to pile sand bags. At that point, former Klondike MLA Fred Berger declared it was an exercise in futility. The river then poured over the banks. Within 40 minutes of breaching the dyke, the river had flooded the town up to two metres in depth in some places.

The flood was caused by ice jams on the Yukon, Indian and Klondike Rivers. Buildings which shifted off their foundations began drifting among the chunks of ice. Silty water filled homes and turned trailers upside down. A greenhouse with a wood heater still burning inside bobbed along the flow. Historic artifacts washed away.

After the waters receded, Dawsonites recounted stories of the flood. Postmaster Lambert Curzon lost his house and most of his things that night. The Front Street building he was rented lifted, along with a log cabin, a dog house and some propane tanks. It floated a block south before coming to rest in a hollow. It was totally flooded when he found it later. "A crib board came floating out the window," he said. "Inside, the water was a foot and a half from the ceiling. I was wiped out."

Oddly enough, Curzon credits the flood with turning his life around and giving him a purpose. He sought a better job, bought some property on 7th Avenue, later sold that and built a large house at the north end of the same street. "It really gave me a boot to do something." But it made him careful too. "I've definitely stayed on high ground since then."

Parks Canada collections curator Michael Gates remembers quite clearly the events surrounding the flood. "The flood started at midnight, but during the day preceding, people were standing along the dyke watching the water come up and down with apprehension. I came to work at 9-10 p.m. and looked in the basement. Water had poured in."

The day after the flood, the Yukon government announced that 20,000 pounds of food supplies and equipment were being airlifted to the stricken town. The Emergency Measures Organization arranged for water pumps to be flown in.

Approximately 270 claims for flood damage totaling $2 million were registered. The Yukon government created a disaster assistance policy to help pay the costs of getting Dawson City back to normal.
